"Why, that is just the kind of a pattern I intended to get," said a gentleman yesterday, in picking out one of those $10 suits we had reduced to $6.50. He remarked he could use that $3.50 very well! Six patterns, all sizes, and about enough left to last two days longer.

IT WILL SETTLE DOUBTS

Bateman and Glynn Will Show
Which Is the Better Man.

Good Preliminary Bout—Jim O'Connor and "Bully" Nally Will Put Up a Six-Round Contest.

It is doubtful if any ring contest has taken place in this vicinity for some time has aroused more interest among local sportsmen than the Glynn-Bateman fight. These boys met tonight in the arena of the Vendome Athletic Club, at Stueben's Roadhouse, on the Bladenburg pike.

The lads have met several times before and in every instance it has been a debatable question as to which was the better man. Their fight here will be the better of the two, as it will be the last of the season.

The preliminary bout between Jim O'Connor and "Bully" Nally should also prove well worth seeing. They will spar six rounds, and if any one of them is as hot as the two rounds that they put up at, the main event will be a good one.

The clubhouse can be reached by the 6:30 and 8:15 trains, stopping at Highlands, or by the bus, which will be in front of this city. These will start from Ed Reynolds', in Georgetown, at 7:30 and 8:15, and from the American Hotel, at 7:30 and 8:15.

Gallaudet's Defeated Contrals.
The Gallaudet second defeated the Central High School second, with two Gallaudet players, last evening by the score of 10 to 0. Capt. Erd will be pleased to arrange with any of the junior teams for a game Saturday, the Kansas High School preferred.

"Rob Roy" Set for National Next Week.
"Rob Roy," the Scotch opera, with all its pathos and pathos, will be seen on the stage of the National Theater on Monday night. This latest effort of the National and Smith is their most successful comic opera.

It had a memorable run in New York last season and has established its right to permanency among standard light operas. The National Theater, with its excellent orchestra and scenic effects, has been the most elaborate attempts of other productions.

The Whittier Opera Company is said to be the strongest organization standing this season, as it is the only one that has been successful in the past.

At the head of this famous organization stand such favorites as Juliette Cullen, Lizzie MacNichol, Anna O'Keefe, Win. Pruetto, Joe Sheehan, Richard F. Carroll, and Wm. MacLaughlin.

There has been much curiosity in Washington to hear this opera, which has been heard by such large audiences in other leading cities, all the more as selections from the music have been so popular.

The opportunity to see the work in its completeness, precisely as it was presented in its long run in New York, will be seized with avidity by the thousands of people of the organization in this city. The sale of seats will open tomorrow morning.

SMOOTHED THE SCRUBS

Princeton 'Varsity Football Team Rolled Up a Big Score.

TROUBLE ABOUT THE SEATS

Undergraduates Kicked Because They Drew Blame for a Hard Win Not Play Any More Practice Games—Capt. Lee's Shoulder Much Improved—Cripples Improving.

(Special to The Times.)
Princeton, Nov. 20.—The scrub team which is in its ranks such men as "Geoff" Wheeler, "Cassidy" Burt, Phil King, Johnny Poe and Mike Morgan, have been giving the "varsity" team some work. They put up a brilliant game, but their efforts were not availing, and the "varsity" boys rolled up a score of thirty-six points in the twenty-five minutes of play.

Baird has decided not to play again before the great struggle on Manhattan Field next Saturday. Capt. Lee's shoulder is much improved, and the leather brace he is wearing made for it will be ready in a few days. Dr. Boardman states that the cripples are improving and will be able to enter the game Saturday, although some will probably be retired before the second half. The coaches were encouraged at the marked improvement along all lines, and expressed themselves as being confident of winning the Yale game.

DISSATISFACTION OVER TICKETS.
The tickets for the game were allotted to the undergraduates yesterday. The majority failed to secure grand-stand seats and over 500 drew blanks. Three Cycling Items.
Women are often puzzled as to what to wear on their feet when bicycling and they have not yet, apparently, hit upon the ideal attire. Low shoes, with gaiters or leggings, are liked by some, while others object to them, on the ground that leggings increase the size of the ankles. The ladies who have large ankles wish to object most strongly to them. During the summer canvas and cloth have been the favorite materials for leggings, but now that winter is coming on the ladies incline to leather. Soft, tan-colored leather with gray and dark-blue costumes, and untanned suede leather, with gray costumes, seem to be the thing. The bicycle boot in the first second is very popular. It is cut very high, coming up almost to the knee, is made of pliable leather, is alternately laced and buttoned and is cut so as to give the desired appearance of a narrow foot and a slim ankle.

There is a difference of opinion in regard to the pronunciation of the word "bicycle." For the information of the mercantile it may be well to say that at Newport it is called "bi-cycling." Many people call it "bi-cycling." The Newport people make a distinction and sound it with the long sound of y. We may state that we think that the Newport people are perfectly right, for as all similar words, "cyclo," "unicycle," "maneuver," "tricycle," "quadracycle," and "multicycle," are accented with the long y there can be no reason, in our opinion, for sounding "bicycle" with a short y.

At Newport this year bicycling has completely changed the complexion of society. Old, young and middle-aged have been devoted to the wheel, and champions have been insisted upon as hitherto. Greater liberty has been allowed in going about with the bicycle than in driving and other sports. The women at Newport have worn very many pretty costumes, but they are conservative in their wheeling garb. The best dressed of them wear short skirts and leggings. Now then one of them is seen with high-heeled slippers and silk stockings, but this is rare, and only when the foot is very pretty and the wearer is opposed to the very thing. The fact that they dress that way in Paris has not convinced the conservative Newporters. The shirt-waist has been universally worn; sometimes a plain affair of wash material starched at neck and wrist, sometimes a dainty bit of mail, sometimes chiffon.

PROTEST CAME TOO LATE

Poolroom License Had Been Issued to George Lacey.

PETITIONERS DISAPPOINTED

They Had Hoped to Prevent the District Officials From Acting in the Matter—The Excise Board Cannot Control Such Places Unless They Are Connected With a Saloon.

Schaefer, Nov. 20.—C. O. Humphrey, of Batavia, and C. M. Miller, of Sydney, Union College students, were arrested last night charged with burglary. Humphrey is a sophomore and Miller a freshman.

They roomed together in the north dormitory, and in their room was found a large quantity of property that seemed to connect them with at least half a dozen burglaries which have been committed here during the past two months. Among the articles recovered were shotguns, mandolins, revolvers, canned meats and innumerable other things.

Humphrey and Miller have been arrested by their fellow-students, some of the thefts having been committed on College Hill, and it is to the detective work of fellow-students that they owe their arrest. Both have influential relatives at Albany, and they take their arrest coolly.

DROPPED A HAT.
The flow complete circle was obtained when a daring burglar, who committed at the fine residence of William Johnson in Union street, near the college. A hat was dropped by one of the burglars in their hasty flight after being discovered, and as it was believed to be Humphrey's he was watched.

The burglars continued, some of them being committed early in the evening. The thieves were not particular regarding booty, anything from money to canned goods being taken.

The students who were watching Humphrey were furnished by the police with a list of the stolen property, and some of them this afternoon some of them were found in their rooms. The students notified the college authorities, and Dean Ripley informed the police. Half an hour later Assistant Chief of Police Forester had arrested the men, and a policeman was standing guard over a room literally packed with stolen stuff.

Enough of the booty has been identified to connect the prisoners with the following burglaries:

October 5, silver spoons taken from J. H. Collins' saloon.
October 8, canned goods from ex-Magor Graham's residence and overcoats from the Y. M. C. A. Building.
That $200 in stamps from the college office and musical instruments from the house of Treasurer H. W. Darling, of the General Electric Company.

THEY WERE MUSICAL.
October 27, money and musical instruments from the house of Auditor E. D. Clark, of the General Electric Company.
November 17, provisions and money from several grocery stores and meat markets and $200 worth of rifles and revolvers from J. Kiekard's sporting goods store.

There was plunder also of many minor robberies, such as silver door plates from houses, etc. Sums of money amounting to about $100 were also taken from the rooms of fellow-students.

The most daring burglary was that of November 17, when C. W. Kendall's residence was robbed at 7:30 p. m. of $50 in bills.

Neither of the prisoners belongs to college fraternities, but Humphrey is a member of the Masonic order. Both were studying civil engineering and stood well in their college work. Humphrey is twenty-one years of age and Miller eighteen.

The police tried to connect the prisoners with a burglary in Chapel street Sunday evening, but both deny any connection with it. They say they were attending service at the Methodist church.

DUNRAVEN BANQUETTED.
But Even His Neighbors Doubt His Lordship's Wisdom.

Manchester, Nov. 20.—The Manchester Courier announces that 200 guests will attend the banquet which is to be given at Cardiff to Lord Dunraven tomorrow, November 21.

The committee, the Courier says, expected a larger number, and will keep the list open until the last moment in the hope that the attendance may be made larger.

"Even Lord Dunraven's neighbors," says the Courier, "seem to doubt the wisdom of the recent fulmination against the cup committee of the New York Yacht Club."

Young Woman Gets a Blacksmith to Release Her Dress.

Spring City, Pa., Nov. 20.—Miss Jessie Lee, a dashing young widow, residing near Mont Clare, had a most embarrassing experience.

While out wheeling alone a day or two ago, her skirt riding up, she was caught in the spokes of the wheel. Almost before she knew it she was left without skirts, and these garments were intricately laced between spokes and wheel.

The first neighbor loaned Miss Lee a dress; then she got a blacksmith to take off the cycle chain and release her own skirts.

QUESTIONS FOR TAX-PAYERS.

Do you think that the District should be bonded to pay for a new system of sewerage and for street extension and improvements?

Do you think that, should a bond bill pass, any of the money realized from the sale of the bonds should be expended in improving private real estate holdings outside the city proper and remote from the great body of taxpayers?

BRADLEY OF KENTUCKY

Points About the Man Who Wants to Be Vice President.

Conducted the Recent Campaign in a Way That Will Be Memorable—His Law Practice Covers the Entire State—His Only Child Is a Pretty and Reserved Young Lady.

Governor-elect Bradley of Kentucky is making considerable head as a prospective Vice Presidential candidate. He has already begun "winning" and "bubbling" with the powers that be, but to what purpose the future alone can tell.

Col. Bradley is a comparatively young man, being not yet fifty years old, and the only possible extra weight that he may be compelled to carry in future political races lies in the fact that he was one of the immortal 366 that died in the last ditch at Chicago in 1889 trying to place Gen. Grant in nomination for a third term. It will require much missionary work and a long process of education to make the contemporary popular.

Gov.-elect Bradley was born at Somerset, Ky. He obtained his education in the free schools, and at the breaking out of the war tried to enlist, but was rejected on account of his age. Later he began to raise a company of young men, but the war closed before he was sent into the field. He has always been a staunch Republican.

BEATEN IN 1887.
In 1887 he was the Republican candidate for governor, but was beaten. Since then, despite the fact that the State was regarded as hopelessly Democratic to an extent that precluded the national committee putting any money into its campaign, he has gone about the State making a reputation for himself on the stump and in every-day life.

When the Democrats under the leadership of Senator Blackburn began to partake of the leaves of free silver Col. Bradley led the Republicans straight into a campaign for sound currency. The result was the selection of Col. Bradley by unanimous consent of the Republican convention in Louisville last year to read the ticket.

He began his campaign on August 25, and conducted it in a way that will be memorable in the State for its vigor, length, and cleanliness. Part of the time he ran a special train through the State, talking at every station. He made 117 speeches.

In personal appearance he is of medium height, stockily built, with a full chin and mustache. He is somewhat indifferently dressed, wears a white shirt hat, and usually a dark, navy blue cutaway suit. He is logical, clear and has a strong, nasal voice.

He is courteous, generous, and like all Kentuckians, hospitable in its fullest sense. His profession he is a lawyer, with a practice that extends to every county in the State.

Col. Bradley lives on the main street of Lancaster in a house of seven gables. His family.

His immediate family consists of a wife and a daughter aged 16. Two years ago Col. Bradley lost his only son, George Robertson Bradley, who at the time of his death was just 24. A splendid granite monument marks his grave.

As to Col. Bradley's home, it stands back from the street and is built in vines and shrubbery. It is of brick, six stories and a half high. The house was built by Allen A. Burton, one of the famous men of Central Kentucky, a generation ago.

He was an artist, and was a friend of all living things that he came nearly got into a fight with his nearest friend who killed a snake on the place. He too, sleeps in the cemetery under a granite shaft on which is this epitaph: "Known to all and loved by all, I only know that I am."

The house is furnished in excellent style, and to its furnishings, the taste of the refined taste of Mrs. Bradley are everywhere to be seen. There are choice steel engravings and other works of art on the walls. The draperies are in excellent taste and the entrance hall is one where comfort and refinement hold sway.

Mrs. Bradley is of slightly more than ordinary height, with dark eyes and hair, and is a charming conversationalist. She has been wrapped up in her husband's canvass and she shows the pleasure of triumph with him to the fullest extent.

Miss Christine, the only child, is a pretty and reserved young lady, inheriting the dark eyes and hair of her mother. She is attending college at Lexington, but came home during the election time.

A New Man Joins the Staff.
We take pleasure in informing our readers that we have secured as an assistant young Mr. Clarence Hornbeck, who has in the past acted as our regular correspondent from Kentucky, and at the same time contributed some brilliant sensational news items to several of the Kansas City and St. Louis dailies. He is the author of the sensation that was so widely copied in the Eastern papers, which was to the effect that shortly after the return of John Brown's body, a petent proslavery, a violent thunderstorm arose and lightning killed a calf on the farm where John's parents resided, and the family Bible, opened at the fifteenth chapter of Luke, and marked the twenty-third verse, which reads as follows: "And bring forth the fatted calf and kill it, and let us eat and be merry." Mr. Hornbeck will make a specialty of acting as society, snake, pickled editor of this paper, and all social, sensational and zoological matters of interest will be handled by him in his masterly style.—Puck.

Joke on the Senator.
Senator Stewart was a day or two ago the victim of an amusing practical joke. The practical joker of silver went into Peter's cafe and had lunch. When the waiter presented the check for 60 cents Senator Stewart handed him a $10 bill and patiently awaited his change. It was some time in coming, but when it arrived a single glance told the Senator there was plenty of it.

There were five half dollar pieces, twenty quarters, and nineteen dimes. The prophet had been about to utter an indignant protest, when he caught the eyes of two or three bystanders and noted the twinkle of amusement in them.

Then he swept the glittering pile into his right hand, rained it down in his trousers pocket, and strode out of the room, without leaving a tip for the waiter or a smile for the audience.—Walter Wellman in Chicago Times-Herald.

AMONG THE BOXERS.
J. H. Pringle of Pittsburg does not take kindly to Corbett's act in presuming to leave the championship of silver to Maher. The Pittsburg says: "One of the stupidest, one of the most ridiculous and one of the most unattractive ever committed was the act of James J. Corbett in presuming to leave the championship of silver to Maher. Maher will appear before the public, and wouldn't it be capital for his enemies to say, 'Why, he is a tin-souled champion; he will leave the championship to Maher. That is the sentiment, and as sure as we live Peter Maher wants to prove to the world that he is worthy of the title before claiming or accepting it. That is the American way; that is the manly way, and that only is the true way."

"But Corbett has no more right to give the championship title to Peter Maher than he has to give it to George Godfrey or Billy Woods. No power on earth ever gave a right to accept the championship? Echo answers, 'Why?'"
